Last evening the residence of Mr. S. Dancing was the principal amusement of the evening. About ten o'clock an elegant sup-

The man who hogs the celery at the hotel table and refuses to let the waiter serve it to other guests, has the dress and some of the manners of a gentleman; but, on closer inspection, you find that he has glittering pig eyes, heavy cheeks and chin, a round, closely cropped head packed with brain-stuff back of the ears, and that he is most terribly in earnest about his dinner. Celery is good, and he knows it. He was born so.

hour drew nearer, which was to link these two young hearts for life. When the sweet strains of the harp were softly heard in Mendlesohn's Wedding March, the bridal party slowly descended, being led by Miss Nora and Mr. Oliver Wood, brother and sister of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Warren, in a most impressive style, after which a sumptuous repast was Safeguards Against Epidemics. SECOND .- The kidneys and liver are the sewers of the system, and unless they are kept in perfect working order no amount of public sanitation can prevent epidemics raging among the people. The prudent man, in the winter and spring, will fortify the system sibility. Dr. Koch, the against any such po celebrated German Scientist and physician, says, for instance, that cholers will have but little effect among those who keep the digest ive organs and the kidneys and liver in healthful operation. Warner's SAFE Remedies are the best scientific curatives and preventives, and should be used now as a safe guard against any future scourge.

Scientific Specifics. THIRD.—We do not cure every known dis-case from one bottle, for Warner's SAFE Remedies number seven scientific specifics, which have been put upon the market, only in obedience to strong public demand.

Recognized Standards.

Proofs of Permanency. SIXTH.-Special inquiry among hundreds of our oldest patients results in unequivocal testimony that the cures wrought six, five four and three years ago were permanent And most of these patients were pronounced incurable when they began Warner's SAFE Remedies. Read a few of thousands of testimonials:

ELDER JAMES S. PRESCOTT, Box 262, Cleveland, Ohio, in 1878 was pronounced incurable of Bright's disease; in 1879 he began the use of Warner's Safe Cure, and in 1884 reported: "Health never better; just passed 80th year; am an euthusiast for Warner's Sate Cure." Scientific Miscellany.

Dr. J. C. Booth, of the United States mint, states that the commoner metals of commerce have greatly improved in quality in the last few years as a result of improvement in the work of purification. Much copper now averages 99 per cent. pure, while a large proportion of the silver from the mining regions contains 99 and nine-tenths per cent. of the pure metal. Concerning the waste in working precious metals, Dr. Booth remarks that, while a loss of ten per cent. is tolerated in working iron in the fire, the government holds the mint responsible for a greater waste in working gold than one-tenth of one per cent., and the actual loss is usually far

In the open air, mineral coal is liable to crumbling and often to spontaneous combustion. An Australian mining engineer, Wenzel Poech, has discovered a simple and inexpensive means of preventing loss from such sources, the plan consisting chiefly in treating the coal-pile with steam for the exclusion of the air and securing a permanent re-tention of moisture. The theory is that the absorption of oxygen and other gases, for which the way is opened by the evaporation of the hydroscopic moisture, causes the deterioration of the coal, and this cannot happen if the coal is kept full of water.

The doctrine of the permanency of the ocean basins, about which geologists disagree, is strongly supported by Rev. O. Fisher, who refers to a suggestion which he made in 1882 to account for the origin of the vast depressions which the oceans fill. Accepting Prof. G. H. Darwin's theory that the moon broke away from the earth more than tifty million years ago, he thinks the ocean basins may be the scar that was formed, and that the basement rocks of continents are fragments of the crust which had already solidified, and which were left behind.

It has been demonstrated by Dr. Hans Molisch that the roots of plants may be deflected from their normal direction by exposure on one side to certain gases. If such gases are in moderate quantities the roots bend away from their source; if in larger quantities, toward such source. The side of the root exposed to the action of the gas The side of the grows more strongly than the other.

A German experimenter, Prof. E. Wollny, has found that soil covered with living herbage or dead vegetable matter is colder in summer and warmer in winter than bare soil under otherwise similar conditions. The difference of temperature is greatest in summer and least in spring and autumn. Bare soil heats more quickly in the spring and cools more quickly in autumn than that covered with living or dead vegetable matter. In a communication to the French Academy of Science, Mons. A. H. de Villeneuve has urged the importance of using distilled water for drinking purposes, and has suggested that the cost may be greatly reduced by using that obtainable from steam engines. He asserts that it is not unpalatable and contains sufficient air, while the absence of lime salts is an advantage. A Swedish naturalist, Dr. Wills, has investigated the strength of various kinds of sea weed to resist strains, such as are caused by the swell of the sea. He finds that seaweeds are very strong and elastic, the parts which ordinarily lie lowest in the water being capable of bearing the greatest strain. The little living worms which have been most unexpectedly discovered in ice are described by Prof. Leidy as being white or colorless, and from onefourth to one-sixth of an inch long by one-seventy-tifth of an inch in thickness, the species being unknown.

The deep sea crustaces, according to Prof. Moseley, either have very large eyes or are eyeless, and there must be a source of light in the deep sea. That source, he claims, is phosphorescence, but its light must be very dim.

From observation I should say that the average age of Americans studying at the German universities is twentyfive. A graduate of one of our col leges or leading academies is ready to get and appreciate the best that the universities offer, as well as to observe and weigh the political and social elements in which he moves. His vacation travel is itself a delight and an education. The benefits of such study to men are so well understood that to point them out more in detail would be needless. But practical information as to the conditions of study point them out more in detail would be as to the conditions of study, as to courses and degrees, is so vague, and in newspapers and magazines often so erroneous, that some facts may be given here. The graduate of American college may mraticulate, in full standing, at a German university on the presentation of his diploma and a passport. These take the place of the certificate of maturity (Maturitats zeugniss) from the gymnasium or real-school, which the German candidate must submit. Men who have no college diploma may attend lectures and have access to all privileges, but they may not become candidates for a de-There is an impression that American students must encounter special difficulties in seeking a degree, and that few succeed in gaining it. This is an error. Many students do not choose to take the required subsidiary studies, lying perhaps outside of their special field, and hence do not try to get the degree. But it is a fact that fewer difficulties beset the American in this quest than the German himself. The university is the regular and essential avenue to the professions and many civil careers, and competition is very keen. But the faculties well know that the American does not seek promotion on German soil; they recognize the compliment of his long pilgrimage to their shrines, and they are willing to encourage him, avoiding the appear ance of anything like a protective tariff. -Horace M. Kennedy, in Popular Seience Monthly for January.

LOCAL NOTICES.

There is no need denying the fact that among the most distressing complaints of humanity, few are equal in intensity to bleed-ing piles. You say the subject is not a pleasant one to talk about, neither is the victim. and our aim is to give him relief. Jacob Chambers, of Henry street, New York, writes: "When I began using Mishler's Herb Bitters (as per printed directions), I had been troubled with bleeding piles for upwards of five years. In six weeks I was perfectly cured.

Mr. Editor-Many of your readers may be benefited by the knowledge of such an excellent remedy as Dr. Jones's Red Clover Tonic, which produces the most tavorable results in disorders of the liver, stomach and kidneys, and is a valuable remedy in dyspepsia; also, debility arising from malaria or other causes. It is a perfect tonic, appetizer, blood purifier and a sure cure for sque. Price, 50 cents. Theo, Tronpe & Co.

I have been bothered with catarrh fo about twenty years. I could not tell how many different remedies I have tried, and none seemed to reach my case like Elv's Cream Balm. I had lost my smell entirely for the last fitteen years, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some the to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever did, and my smell is partly restored and it there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for I always had a trouble with my throat and a little backing cough, and I am almost well of that.—Mrs. M. Who Has Cold Feet?

The poor fellow whose blood does not circulate vigorously, whose liver is half asleep, whose stomach is in poor order, and who digestive apparatus has gone back on him. can never make his feet warm until he put stomach, blood, liver and digestion into good condition. He can do this by the aid of Brown's Iron Bitters. Of this prince of tonics, Mr. W. C. Fuller, of Montgomery, Ala. says: "I took Brown's Iron Bitters for general debility, and greatly improved."

A. B. Baker, 365 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill., used Athlophoros for rheumatism with such gratifying effect that he says, "Language fails to express the good results experien When I heard of it my head was drawn over my left shoulder with rheumatism. apparatus of the inner man is continually at rork. Heart, lungs, liver, kidneys and all keep at work from bir h until death. How mportant it is that all these should be in perfect order! Let any of them run down, or et the blood become impoverished, and the result is disease and decay. But Brown's Iron Bitters is the sure restorative., Witness, for instance, the case of Mrs. Gillespie, of San Autonio, Texas, who was for a long time a great sufferer. She says, "I have used Brown's fron Bitters for dyspensia and general debility with great benefit."
